

Age and Merit

From the spacious days of Queen Elizabeth comes the motif of this dignified "Tudor Engraved" Tea Service.

There is also a pattern in table silver to match.

We welcome comparison of prices with those of goods of equal quality.

MANY of the famous old tea services in the British Museum are well-nigh priceless. Others of the same period are only worth their value as old metal.

The lesson is this: Age without artistic merit counts nothing.

In Birks Silver there is a purity of design and dignity of treatment that will secure appreciation long after the makers are dust.

SUCCESSFUL MEETING OF CHEM. SOC.

Mr. Waldbauer, of Du Pont Company, Speaker

FILM PRODUCING

Steps from Raw State to Exposure Clearly Indicated

The regular meeting of the McGill Chemical Society was held yesterday afternoon at 5 p.m. in the Chemistry building. A large number of members were present to hear Mr. Waldbauer of the Du Pont Manufacturing Company speak on "The Manufacture of Moving Picture Films."

Mr. Waldbauer proved to be a most interesting speaker. He dealt in detail with the commercial production of moving picture films from the raw materials to the stage when they are ready for exposure.

The cellulose is prepared from nitrated cotton in earthen pots or more commonly used mechanical dippers, and then washed in cold water several times. Alcohol is then used to take the place of the water. In order that the solution may have the required viscosity some solvent such as methyl alcohol is very satisfactory. The cellulose is then filtered through very fine filter paper to remove any small impurities such as pitch and wood which have escaped the previous operations. If the film were to be cast as it is now upon setting it would be found to be very brittle after it has aged a little and a film in this condition is very troublesome and practically useless. This difficulty was first overcome by adding some synthetically or analytically made camphor, which gives the required flexibility to the film. This substance, however, has been replaced by triphenyl phosphate due to the camphor causing the film to be highly inflammable.

The casting process, besides being one of the greatest interest, is a technical feature that has demanded the very best of combined chemical and mechanical design and skill for its development. The cellulose is forced through a hopper around a very smooth wheel of fifteen feet in diameter which casts it to a thickness of 0.043 of an inch. If the thickness varies at all from the above dimension the film does not give a clear picture on the screen. After the film has passed over this large wheel it goes over a number of idling wheels. The whole structure is encased in an air-tight duct to keep out any foreign matter, hot air is blown in an opposite direction to the rotation of the wheels and the film is thereby dried.

The film is now taken into the dark room where machinery covers one side with emulsion which is so sensitive to light. Great care is taken to avoid any scratches on the film.

Mr. Waldbauer concluded by stating (Continued on Page 2.)

Popularity of the B.W.F. Is Clearly Shown

The Union held their most successful smoker of years last night. The hall-room was crowded to the doors and the students showed that they are taking a real interest in the B. W. & F. activities. There were easily over five hundred devotees of the art of self defence there and they were treated to as good a show of these popular sports as could be desired. Everything was run off like clockwork and there were no annoying delays between bouts thanks to the Mandolin Club and the efficiency of the promoters. The idea of having music in between bouts is indeed an excellent one, and one which it would be well to continue. The Mandolin Club Orchestra made their first public appearance at last night's smoker and demonstrated to all present that they are musicians of the best calibre. Their rendering of popular and college songs would be hard to surpass.

The bouts started at about ten minutes after eight with a clever fencing match. Cochrane of Science '24 and Fielding were the competitors and they gave an exhibition of the noble art that would not disgrace the famous D'Artagnan and his three trusty comrades at their best. Cochrane was the quicker and managed to win by a small margin.

Parmer of Med. '26 and Scarie of Med. '23 then had a set to with the mits. They both showed a tendency to mix it up and this was appreciated by the audience. Scarie had a nasty left that bothered his opponent. Scarie forced the fight and showed better condition than the other Med. who was unable to get his blows home as often. McBrierty, last year's boxing coach, was the referee. No decisions were given in any of the boxing and wrestling bouts during the evening, following the usual custom in

Two of Dave McKee's husky light weight mat crawlers gave a fine exhibition. Howes and Irvine are both experienced men, and should give a fine account of themselves during the coming season. Irvine started out as the aggressor at first, and they changed this position frequently throughout the bout. Scientific wrestling was the predominant feature of the match, and these two men rolled, countered, and attacked to perfection. A great variety of holds in this very strenuous game were demonstrated: nearly everything from a nelson to scissors and headlocks being used.

Brewer last year's B. W. & F. inter-collegiate welterweight champion put on the gloves with Abinovich, a freshman in Arts. Brewer was greeted with loud applause as he entered the ring, as everyone knew that they were going to see a good bout. Needless to say they were not (Continued on Page 3.)

MEETING OF THE PLAYERS LAST NIGHT

The Initial Meeting of the Season

GOOD ATTENDANCE

Important Business Matters Discussed

The members of the Players' Club held their initial meeting of the season in the Ball room of the Union Building last night.

Mr. Noad, the retiring president, acted as chairman, and called for nomination for a president, vice-president, secretary and a treasurer.

The following officers were elected: Honorary President. Dr. Macmillan; President, Robert Hall; Vice-President, Miss Stafford; J. A. Taylor; Secretary, Miss Fry; Treasurer, McIntyre. The minutes were then read by the secretary, Miss Fry, and were approved by the members. It was then moved that a committee be appointed to assist the executive committee and that their committee consists of five ladies and five gentlemen. This motion was seconded and carried. The members elected to this committee were as follows:

Misses. Birkett, Foster, Sharples Snyder; Messrs R. C. Harris, H. Avison, S. D. Pierce, F. H. Walter, H. Cousins.

After the election of the committee J. A. Taylor moved that their former Secretary, who is now ill, be remembered by sending her some token of their appreciation for her past services. This was unanimously agreed upon by all the members. T. L. Bullock the former Treasurer gave a statement of last year's expenditures. It was also decided that the fee of $1.00 be charged to members and that the Secretary be responsible for informing those members who do not come in contact with the university. It was also agreed that power be given to the President, Robert Hall to arrange for the speakers who were to address the Club. With the consent of the members this was conferred upon the executive committee. The meeting was adjourned following the transaction of the business in hand.

MECH. CLUB TO VISIT BELL TELEPHONE CO.

The executive of the Mechanical Club has arranged with the officials of the Bell Telephone Company to allow Science students to visit their Main Telephone Exchange this afternoon.

The Mechanical Club will have a number of these very interesting and instructive trips to the numerous industries about the city and all men wishing to join the Club should communicate with either John Fry, Mech. '22, or J. S. Bieler, Mech. '23.

All Science students are invited and are requested to meet at the Union at five minutes to two, so a start may be made at two o'clock sharp.

MILITARY PAPERS ARE RECOMMENDED

"A" and "B" Certificate Men to Read Publications

All men who are taking their A (Lieutenant's) and B (captain's) certificates are strongly recommended to see periodically the military publications, which are in the racks of the magazine room of the Redpath Library. Especial attention is drawn to the Army Quarterly, which contains "Notes on the History and Development of the Military Forces in Canada," by Brevet Lt.-Col. R. O. Alexander, D.S.O., R.C.R., at present on the Headquarters Staff of this Military District, and such articles as "The Development of the German Plan of Campaign, August-September, 1914," and "Some Notes on Tank Development During the War." The following also contain many paragraphs and articles of great interest: United Services Magazine, the predecessor of the Army Quarterly; Canadian Military Gazette, and the Military Engineer.

STAIRS FOR GHOSTS IN HOSPITAL

In the construction of the new Peking Medical College of the Rockefeller Foundation, every effort has been made not to offend the sensibilities of the hospital patients, and to this end a means of easy access for spirits to the hospital buildings has been constructed, in accordance with the native equipped. A specially constructed stair, upon which mortals never tread, has been built for the use of departed spirits.

VICTORY FOR MEDS. IN BASEBALL GAME

Arts Minus Two Men in Game Last Evening

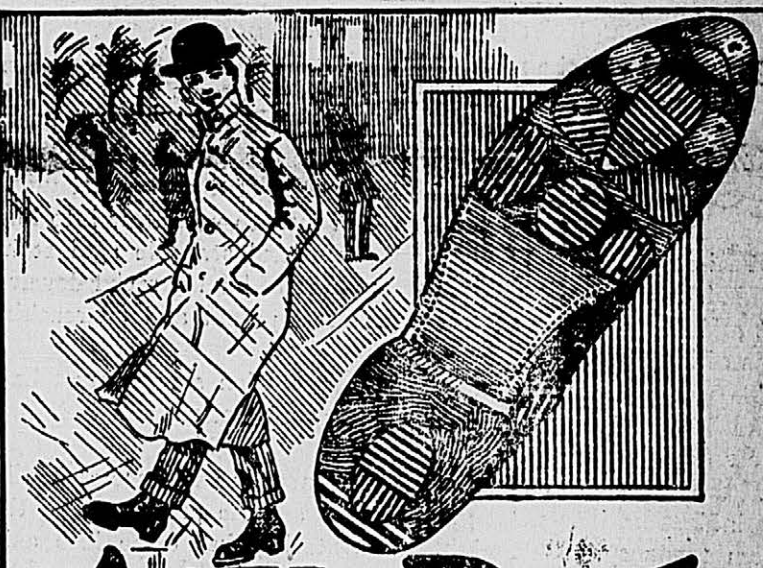

In a close game of baseball played last evening at the High School, Med. '25 defeated Arts '24, by the score of 19 to 9. Unfortunately Arts '24 were minus two of their men.

For the winners Earle Wight pitched a brilliant game and Forest, Senecal and Lanthier proved to be heavy hitters for the losers Blundell pitched a sterling game while Kornberg Blumenstein and Burrows were responsible for their runs.

The teams lined up as follows:

Med. '25	Arts '24
Walker, D.	Layhew, J. H.
Night, E.	Blundell, H.
Henry, R.	Blumenstein, H.
Lanthier, J.	Sessenwein, L.
Tinkess, D. E.	Kornberg, I. A.
Forest, J.	Burrows, N. A.
Senecal, J.	Bethel, J. P.
Barnes, D.	R. F.
Thompson.	Curbello, Sub.

There will be a general meeting of all class representatives at 5.30 P. M. in the Union on Monday Nov. 21st. Everybody out as it is in connection with the coming City League.

Air-Peds

Give You Non-Skid Feet

YOU'LL NEVER SLIP on a wet pavement or slippery floor if you are shod with Air-Peds. These handy little live-rubber pads with air spaces, applied to the boots at heel, ball and toe, give your feet the grip that cannot slip. Air-Peds also make walking easier. They make hard, hot pavements feel like a well-clipped lawn. Better than rubbers because they do not draw the feet. And then, think of the saving in expensive shoe leather! Air-Peds more than treble the life of your shoes.

IF

A little word is IF, but of much significance: how many joys and sorrows, lights and shadows, hopes and fears, triumphs and despairs, have been affected by that word—"where the frail hair-breadth of an IF is all that sunders life and death." IF Alexander the Great had not died of fever, the result of excessive living, Greece would have mastered the world; IF Julius Caesar had not aspired to be a god, he would not have been stabbed; IF the simple teachings of the Master had been carried out, much of the world's tribulations would have been prevented, and we would be living today in peace and contentment; IF the Norman arrow had not penetrated Harold's eye, England would probably have remained Saxon. So down through the ages the effect of the little word is clearly shown.

IF is seldom other than weak and disastrous, and one cannot imagine it coming from a Cromwell, a Nelson, a Wellington, a Beatty, or a Currie. This century, perhaps more than any other, calls for men and women of foresight and of action. Life is more complex every day, with ever-increasing responsibilities. The word IF must be eradicated, and by hitting straight from the shoulder, results will be achieved hitherto considered impossible. The next generation must not say, "IF the Disarmament Conference of 1921 had succeeded we would now be living in peace." There is no place for IF on the campus or in the class-room, and we at McGill must recognize no word with such limitations.

IF can be conquered as Kipling shows us in one of his most inspiring poems, which concludes as follows:

"IF you can fill the unforgiving minute
With sixty seconds' worth of distance run,
Yours is the earth, and ev'ry thing that's in it,
And which is more, you'll be a man, my son."

COLLEGE CLUBS

Perhaps one of the most outstanding advantages of a university training is the contact which it affords with all sorts and conditions of men. The individual student is so placed that he must of necessity take cognizance of his fellows; in the class-room, on the campus, on the field of sport, he is but one of a group and unless he suppresses that inherent tendency of man to withdraw into himself, he is lost in the hopeless and unnatural struggle against his own kind. Organization is the latest phase of human racial development and has been found to be the most potent and far-reaching means of influence.

To work to full advantage in a corporation a man must have trained himself to group thinking and group action, and it is here that a university is so helpful.

If the number of clubs and societies now in existence at McGill is an indication, it is most gratifying to see the prevalence of this modern tendency. Last night the Ontario Club came into existence, and the men from the neighboring province now form a distinct group. There can be no doubt that they will benefit, singly and collectively, from this application of college spirit. It is a notable fact that there are clubs at McGill which represent British North America, from Newfoundland to the Pacific. The American Club, the Cosmopolitan Club, the Maccabean Circle, all are a testimony to the spirit of companionship. The man who is a bookworm, come out of your shell and join your fellows in a spirit of comradeship which will bring lasting joy upon your head, and help you to gain the good-will of men.

CORRESPONDENCE

The Daily is not responsible for the sentiments of letters published in the correspondence columns. Signed communication from graduates, undergraduates and members of the faculty will be placed in print if they are not of too great length.

Correspondents are requested to observe the unwritten law of the newspaper office—that they write upon ONE SIDE of the paper ONLY.

No communication will be admitted in this column without the name of the writer being attached, not necessarily for PUBLICATION.

The Editor, McGill Daily.

Dear Sir—Since the last article in the Soap Box column has drawn forth such a sentimental protest with the signature "Facts," may I use your columns to clear away a little of the fog in which the gentleman is groping?

In the first place, space did not permit me to dwell at length on some of the general principles, but rather I wished to exhibit a few points that can be justly placed by other nations, and also to stimulate the widest outlook among ourselves.

The indignant gentleman has twisted my statements, colored them with a much-abused national emotion, and by rallying his Canadian pride would try to depict me throwing mud at our Mother Country.

He may rest assured that nothing was farther from my words or thoughts.

Then he gives us a number of so-called "facts," things which our day-school teachers implanted so thoroughly, but chooses to ignore other factors that even Japanese students could prove.

Our open southern boundary, without a parallel in the world; the number of troops here as compared with other British possessions—much less exposed; the comparative absence of iron-clads from our shores—all speak of Britain's unwritten trust in Canada's enormously powerful neighbor. The Monroe Doctrine does not enter into the question.

And it is because so many of us have said "Britain would be a fool to yield up her command of the seas," that other nations say "We have the means; we will be fools not to question her rule."

So the vicious circle, which the Conference is striving to break, has widened. My friend is using the arguments of 1914 in the year 1921, and he would have great difficulty in convincing other powers that the British Dominions combine is not an alliance. For further information, he could profitably peruse the figures in the Statesman's Year Book.

Finally, for the elucidation of him whose name is withheld, the Soap Box is decidedly "meant to be taken seriously" by broad-minded students. I thank you, Mr. Editor.

E. H. ADAMS.

The Editor, McGill Daily.

Dear Sir—I should like to express an opinion on the report of the meeting of the Economics Club that appeared in Friday's Daily.

This report gives a fairly full and somewhat detailed account of Mr. Ballantyne's speech. This part of the report is excellent, and I think most of those who were there will agree with me, a very fair one. In the following paragraph the reporter forgets the easy flowing style that characterizes the first part of his article and deals with the speech of Mr. Jones in a caustically satirical manner. After indulging in a few such epithets as "dyed-in-the-wool Liberal" and "real old grit" he proceeds to lay bare the fallacies of Mr. Jones' arguments in such a way as to hold him up to ridicule and ends with a satirically worded tribute to the "magnetic personality" and "splendid oratory" of Mr. Jones.

The report then dealt with the paper read by Mr. Lefsrud, and this report in my estimation was inadequately short when one takes into consideration the amount of space given to the speech of Mr. Ballantyne.

My frank opinion is that the reporter violated the principles both of good journalism and of fair play. First, he gave undue prominence to Mr. Ballantyne's paper, and secondly he gave a very highly colorful account of Mr. Jones' speech. These may both be classified as journalistic errors as they indicate plainly the political sympathies of the reporter. The reporter's prejudices are generally supposed to be suppressed. This reporter was "amused to note" something or other about Mr. Mackenzie King's "trustworthy henchman." The idea of a reporter being "amused to note" sounds rather ridiculous, doesn't it? The function of the reporter is to record what he sees and hears and when he allows any personal view or political bias to creep, however insidiously, into his report he may be said to have violated a very essential principle of journalism.

In my opinion this reporter did not give a fair and impartial account of the three speakers, and I believe that his ill-considered sarcasm at the expense of Mr. Jones not only evidences poor sportsmanship but is a subversion of the principles for which "McGill Daily" stands.

Thanking you for this space, Yours truly,
"FAIR PLAY."

The Editor, McGill Daily.

Dear Sir—I was rather disgusted to notice such a prominent partisan bias on the part of a reporter as was manifest in the unfair report of the splendid meeting held by the Economics Club on Thursday evening. This report would have been quite in place in an unprincipled, party-owned newspaper, but was certainly not a credit to our McGill Daily.

I hold no brief for either of the parties represented, but I have enough love for fair play to deplore the fact that one side should receive undue credit and prominence while the well presented cases of the other men should be in the one case ridiculed and in the other practically ignored.

The reporter seems to have quite lost sight of the true function as well as of the ethics of journalistic reporting.

Sincerely yours,
R. COLLINS, Arts '23.

The Editor, McGill Daily.

Dear Sir—It was with great interest that I read Sophette's letter in your columns on Saturday, and I feel that I may now speak of what has been a source of the greatest anxiety to me since my arrival at the University. Could you tell me, Mr. Editor, or perhaps some of your readers could explain, why all the co-eds try to flirt with me? It's very embarrassing for a modest man like myself. My mother raised me a nice boy and a pure boy, and when all those vamps from the R.V.C. give me the "joyful optic" on the campus, I feel there ought to be a law against it. It's very difficult for me to concentrate on the words of wisdom of the profs, when I can feel the eyes of those shameless girls fairly boring through my back. When I try to make my shy and shrinking way from one classroom to another in the Arts building, the brazen hussies park in my path with deadly determination, and hand out the "come hither" glance. I can't think why I attract so much attention. Other boys in my class almost as good looking as myself are permitted to go on their way unmolested. It can hardly be my clothes, for it would be impossible to find anything less obtrusive, or in better taste, than my quiet lounge suit of dark green, hair-striped in a slightly lighter shade, and my ties are the most unassuming of the selection offered me by my London tailor. The only solution that suggests itself is that my spats are responsible—but if this is the case I can hardly be expected to attend classes in my bare boots, even to oblige the R.V.C., when I promised mama I wouldn't get my feet wet.

Several of the girls in my home town have remarked in moments of emotion that I have very attractive ears. They say they are so large and graceful. But in truth, Mr. Editor, God gave me my ears—I can't help myself! In conclusion, let me say that while I like and desire a certain appreciation of my charms, I can not appreciate the extent to which the co-eds carry this, and trust that their attitude may be strongly condemned.

Yours truly,
IRRESISTIBLE FROSH.

TRAINING OF NURSES NEEDS IMPROVEMENT

One hears a great deal today about the crying need for the broader education of nurses, and many Canadian universities have opened their doors to the nursing profession. Medicine, law, agriculture—these and many other vocations have found their place within our universities, and nursing has an equal claim to the benefits of university education, and the help which universities can give.

It is a vital art, and the modest nurse in a very special sense is a public servant. She is employed in our hospitals, our army, and our public health service.

Society lays upon her heavy responsibilities, not only for the care of the sick, but for the protection of community health, and for the conservation of our human resources.

If she is poorly prepared, the public suffers.

It is therefore to the public's interest to see that the education of the nurse is carried on under the best possible conditions, and established upon the soundest possible basis.

CHAPTER II

1. Now Zaccius' fame went through all the land, and many did prophesy saying one unto another, "When Zaccius returneth from McGill he shall be great amongst us and shall go unto Ottawa, unto the HOUSES OF PARLIAMENT and represent us".

2. But as the day grew near for Zaccius' departure his father didst go about wagging his head and muttering saying, "Yet I be fearful for there be wine and wild women and, my son, my son, thou hast few brains and many shekels of silver".

3. But Zaccius didst caper like a wild ass amongst the clover and heeded not his father's council, nor his mother's entreaties, nor the scoffs and jeerings of his brethren.

4. Now in the land there dwelt a rich young man and he had travelled many times unto that mighty city of MONTREAL, and he had seen the shrine of McGill and he did fill the young Zaccius with many strange tales.

5. And Zaccius dreamed a dream and as he dreamed he saw himself standing on a platform and gathered around him were the scribes and high priests all enrobed in gowns with many strange hats upon their heads and the hall was filled with the multitudes of the students and they all cried with one accord "Welcome to McGill Zaccius, welcome".

6. Now when Zaccius awakened from his dream he swore an oath to go unto McGill the very next day. (To be continued.)

NO, NOT US. WE KNOW BETTER.

ONTARIO CLUB STARTS WITH LOTS OF PEP

First Meeting Held Yesterday at Union

OFFICERS ELECTED

Plans for Coming Winter Should Attract Many Members

A short time ago a group of progressive students got together and organized the Western Ontario Club for McGill men who come from that quarter. It was the interest shown in the new club that it was warranted to enlarge its idea and form an all-Ontario Club, comprising men from all parts of that province.

The first meeting was held yesterday afternoon in the Union to elect officers and discuss plans for the coming season. H. Rumpel, the temporary president, called the meeting to order and C. Creelman was elected to act as temporary secretary.

The following officers were then elected:

President, Sir Arthur Currie.
Vice-President, Ed. Crain (Ottawa).
Secretary-Treasurer, O. L. McCullough (Montreal).

The new President then called for suggestions about the finances and the organization of a constitution for the club. After some discussion the following motions were carried:—That the membership fee be $2.00 and that a temporary committee, consisting of one representative from each faculty, be elected for this session to recruit new members and to assist the executive in drawing up a constitution.

The following men were elected to act as this committee:—

Faculty of Arts: G. B. Puddicombe (Ottawa).
Faculty of Commerce: G. F. Jones.
Faculty of Dentistry: A. J. McMillan.
Faculty of Medicine: A. S. Hill (Petersburg).

Faculty of Science: W. A. Davis (Ottawa).

The Law representative is yet to be elected.

A general discussion followed and the very good suggestions were put forward for the welfare of the Club. It was decided to begin the season with a smoker to be held sometime within the next two weeks. One member moved that the Ontario ladies of the R. V. C. in a sister club to co-operate in holiday dances, etc., a suggestion that was well received by the assembled members.

C. Scobell was appointed as permanent publicity manager. It was suggested that the fixing of dates for holding the dances be left to the executive. Nearly a hundred were present at the meeting which certainly augurs well for the future of the Club, and considering the number of Ontario men at McGill, the Ontario Club should be one of the liveliest organizations in the College.

ARGE CROWD WITNESSED FINE SMOKER

The least disappointed. These two gave an exhibition that was worth coming from afar to witness. The smoker has lost none of his cleverness, although giving away thirteen cents to the freshman, he gave a point of himself. Both men hit each other hard.

Binovitch had no longer reach but Commerce soph. evened this up by her footwork. The Arts man will surely show up well in the interfaculty, is well worth watching for he is a boxer, and has a strong punch.

Ham and Armstrong put on a snappy sitting match and went at it hard and fast. They showed good condition considering that it is only the beginning of the season. Although not quite as scientific as the lighter men they gave a very exciting bout.

Ward and Smeaton, two past college champions went at it hammer and tongs for three rounds. Ward is a very shifty boxer, and is very quick on the offensive.

Edelberg, last year's 125 lb. champion, and Light, the M. A. A. lightweight champion gave a clever demonstration of scientific boxing. Light has a shifty, effective style. He is quick, and carries weight behind his punches. He preceded the fighting from the beginning, and mixed it up in fine style, and Edelberg, although taking a lot of punishment, kept right on. He fought well but as no match for the M. A. A. man who was quicker and who had it all over Edelberg in condition. Light had the better of the first two rounds, but the last Edelberg bucked up and this bout was about even. The night before last Light boxed in a three round exhibition bout at a smoker with the provincial champion in his weight, and was greatly to his credit coming out and boxing again last night.

During the interval between this match and the next, Dave McKenna, the resident of the B. W. & F. and the heavyweight wrestling champion for the last two years issued a call for more recruits. He said that the students had some examples of the work that W. & F. was doing and urged everyone whether experienced or not to get out and help McGill to win the annual at-arms in February. INTER-CLASS BASKETBALL HAS STARTED

Science '23 and Arts '25 Won

GOOD SHOWING

Games Scheduled for Monday Between Six Teams

The first two games of the Inter-Class Basketball League were played at Molson's Hall last night, and resulted in wins for teams representing Arts '25 and Science '23.

The first game contested was between Arts '25 and Med. '26 and was a very close one—the final score being 23 to 19 for Arts '25. At half time Medicine led by a score of 8-6 but in the second half Arts came back strong due to the good shooting of Bronson, who scored 5 baskets in the last half. Manson for the losers showed up well, scoring a total of 11 points.

The second game was between Science '23 and Science '25, and was not so closely contested. Science '23 had a faster and heavier aggregation and gave a better display of combination than the losers. Paterson and Connor showed up well for the losers while Rorke and Powell of Science '23 divided the honors in scoring between them. The final score was 19-6. The line-up was as follows: Science '23: Rorke, Snyder (capt.), Munroe, Graham, Powell, McCaw. Science '25: Paterson (capt.), Dingman, Stewart, Norton, Brenner, Gross, Goddard, Connor.

Commerce '22 and Science '22 were also scheduled to play, but neither team showed up, so they have defaulted their place in the schedule.

Monday there will be three more games: Law '24 vs Med. '23, at 5 p.m.; Med. '24 vs Arts '24, at 5.45 p.m.; Arts '23 vs Dents '25, at 6.30.

The original schedule gave Arts '23 vs Dents '24 for Monday, but on account of a baseball game at the same time Commerce '24 will play Dents '24. Turpell of Med. '25 officiated to the satisfaction of all.

George C. Bastian, instructor of news editing in the McGill School of Journalism and assistant editor of the Chicago Tribune, will act as one of the judges in appraising the respective merits of all the college publications included in the Wisconsin Intercollegiate Press Association.

One issue of each Wisconsin college paper has been received by Mr. Bastian. These copies he is criticizing and comparing from the standpoint of make-up, news content, rhetorical construction, preciseness of diction, copy reading and head line writing. His judgment, when arrived at, will be communicated to G. W. Greene, secretary of the press association at Beloit, Wis. —Daily Northwestern.

Two years ago by a large margin and last year by only two points. This year the team goes down to Toronto and they are out to bring Varsity's scalp back to Montreal and to retrieve the last two defeats. To do this the support of every student in the college is needed.

Two 118 lb. men, Reid and Macdonald then showed their worth, and their knowledge of the wrestling game. They are both exceedingly fast, and tumbled about the mats in fine style and showed an intimate knowledge of the harder points of the game. Reid's bridging is especially worthy of comment for in this branch of the sport he proved himself to be an adept.

Dr. Sullivan from the faculty of Science was then called upon for a speech. A smoker would not be complete without a few words from him, and this smoker was no exception from the others. His few words were immensely appreciated by everyone present.

Rennie, last year's runner-up in the City boxing championships in the 105 lb. class, was one of the visitors from the Grenadier Guards, and he and Schleifer, a freshman, made things hum. These two midgeets proved that despite their small stature, they have wallop that could make many a heavier man stagger. They had no mercy on each other's features, and blows were exchanged almost too fast for the eye to follow. Schleifer was the more aggressive but Rennie guarded well, and though he did not hit quite as often as the McGill man he landed hard when he struck out. Schleifer is certainly a man that can be counted to do well in the 105 lb. class.

Professor Brody made an impromptu speech and told a few jokes which impressed the audience humorously.

The last match of the evening was an exciting display of hard hitting between Wener of McGill and Volkirk of the Grenadier Guards both in featherweight division. Both of these men showed a willingness to rough it. Volkirk had, perhaps, a harder punch, but on the whole, the honours were about even.

The following members of the faculty were present:

Dr. Cyrus MacMillan, Dr. Sullivan, Profs. Brown, Tate, and Mr. Sugars of the School of Commerce. Mr. C. B. Powder, the physical director of the Montreal High School was also an interested spectator.

Owing to the unexpectedly large number of students present there were not enough chairs and smokers for all but everybody can rest assured that this will be remedied at the next smoker.

ATTRACTIVE PLANS MADE FOR JUNIOR

Sir Arthur and Lady Currie Are Among Patrons

STARTS AT 8.30

Precautions Have Been Taken for Exclusion of All Ineligibles

Practically all the necessary arrangements have now been completed for the Junior Dance and the committee in charge have entered upon the final and hardest lap of all, namely the decoration of the Union where the dance will be held. It is intended this year to devote less attention to the adornment of the walls and lights, making these preparations rather simple, though none the less beautiful, and directing more efforts towards making the evening a big success from the point of view of amusement and novelty. This resolution should find favour with all those attending and should contribute to making the dance given by the class of '23 an even more memorable event than those of past years.

A fairly elaborate and complete system of identifying the subscribers to the dance has been worked out so that there will be no danger of any getting in who have no right to be there. Last year in particular some "stunt" of that nature was well worked, but the precautions taken this time should obviate anything of the sort occurring. This is a Junior Dance, and juniors should themselves see to it that no men of other years get tickets while there are some junior men going without.

The affair will be under the patronage of Sir Arthur and Lady Currie. Dean and Mrs. Adam, Dean and Mrs. Finley, Dr. and Mrs. Harkness, and Miss Hurlbatt. Representatives have also been invited from "Varsity," Queens, R. M. C., and MacDonald, but to date no official replies have been received from them.

The dance programme has been drawn up with due regard to the present predilection for Fox Tots, and follows herewith:

Extra—Fox Trot.

1.—Waltz.

2.—Fox Trot.

3.—Waltz.

4.—Waltz.

5.—Fox Trot.

6.—One Step.

7.—Waltz.

8.—Fox Trot.

Supper—First Sitting.

2nd. Extra—Fox Trot.

3rd. Extra—One Step.

Supper—Second Sitting.

2nd. Extra—Fox Trot.

3rd. Extra—One Step.

9.—Fox Trot.

10.—Waltz (Moonlight).

11.—Fox Trot.

12.—Fox Trot.

13.—Fox Trot.

The explanation of the supper arrangements is as follows. Immediately after the 8th dance those holding first sitting tickets will go down to supper. There will be plenty of room for all so there will be no need to rush away before the end of the dance. While the first sitting people are eating supper those holding second sitting tickets will have two extras. Then there will be a short interval, after which the second sitting will be held, and those who were included in the first sitting will have their two extras. In this way, there should be no confusion if those who "trade any of the extras make sure they are doing so with those who have the same supper sitting as themselves.

The dance begins at eight-thirty promptly so that plenty of time will be available for each number. Everyone is requested to come early so that the evening's programme may begin promptly. A bugler will announce the beginning of each dance about two minutes before the music starts. It is hoped that each couple will take advantage of the interval to find their partners so that as little as possible of the music may be lost.

Hi—You see, we built the pig-sty near our house.

Dr.—But don't you know that that is decidedly unhealthy?

Hi—Oh, that's all right, the pigs ain't been sick yet.—Medley.

A MEDIUM OF FRIENDSHIP

"A recent issue of the McGill Daily, of McGill University, Montreal, Canada, contains a column of 'Intercollegiate Notes' giving news of California, Indiana, Arkansas and other American colleges and universities.

"This frank informal recognition of American educational institutions is gratifying as showing that the college men of the two countries, which have so much in common and have at all times in the past been friendly, are drifting closer together. The McGill-Syracuse game is another evidence of the same tendency. Only good can arise from such exchanges by those in both countries with an interest in college life, and they should not be allowed to die out for lack of encouragement on either side of the border."

PRESENT SYSTEM SCORED BY PROF.

Contradictory Views Are Also Voiced

The following article appeared in a recent issue of the "Daily Northwestern" and voices views both favouring and disapproving the present University system.

"Grades, credits and degrees... the whole business is a device of the devil!" Mr. Max McConnell, former registrar of the University of Illinois, makes this startling statement in "Bachelor of Arts: What is it?" appearing in "The New Republic" of October 5.

Mr. McConnell characterizes the present system of grading as a "pernicious formalism." "Grades are really a farce," he says. "It is foolish to maintain the medieval institution of a degree—the Artium Baccalaureus. For whatever purpose under heaven a student comes to college it takes him exactly four years to accomplish it—as evidenced by a degree."

Mr. McConnell proposes a system of "real records"—a printed synopsis of each course and a report from the instructor of the student's accomplishments therein. If grades, credits, and degrees were abolished, Mr. McConnell firmly believes that students would come to college in enthusiastic search for real learning.

"Our system of marking is far from satisfactory, but Mr. McConnell has not given us the complete solution," said Prof. James A. James, of Northwestern University, when interviewed concerning Mr. McConnell's article. In his opinion, he has cheapened the discussion through the suggestion made in the paragraph, "If, therefore, what you are after is a 90 or an A, keep your eye not on the course, but on the professor. Study him... the subject matter is only an incidental medium." That seems very foolish!

"The article by Mr. McConnell is quite radical, but contains much suggestive material," said Prof. Elmer E. Jones, Director of the School of Education. "Some of his views are probably much distorted, and will not bear close analysis. For example, it is a debatable question, whether the large percentage of our students actually work for grades rather than because they are interested."

Professor Jones is doubtful as to what the result would be if the grade-credit-degree motive were eliminated from education. The writer's best point, in Professor Jones' opinion, is his argument for "real records," but many administrative questions would arise from such a system. "Moreover," remarked Professor James, "Mr. McConnell sees the failure of the College of Liberal Arts through the eyes of an ex-registrar, and that is not an adequate view."

"The proposed system might work admirably in Utopia," said Professor Robert G. Martin of the Department of English. "For present conditions in America it is thoroughly impracticable. What we need to do for the B. A. degree is not to abolish it but to make it mean something. As for records of the kind proposed—who can see an instructor making out such for a class of 150, a registrar's office supplying information on the basis of such, or a candidate for a job going to an employer with a sheaf of such printed analyses and statements under his arm?"

Prof. Lew Sarett of the School of Speech, when interviewed, remarked that he knew Mr. McConnell well. "Mr. McConnell's interesting and persuasive plan is so revolutionary that one cannot commit oneself without much thought," said Professor Sarett. "The ends he seeks are commendable: enthusiasm on the part of the student for all his courses, freedom from the boredom that marks some thoughtless students in required courses."

Professor Sarett does not believe our entire system, as such, be abolished to attain this end. Concerning Mr. McConnell's constructive plan, Professor Sarett said, "At the foundation of Mr. McConnell's plan is the false assumption that the typical college student is by nature a purposeful, mature man with a sense of education values, and with the power to detect and to inhibit temptations to follow the line of least resistance. There are many students of such caliber—and they are a joy and an inspiration to every instructor; but to say that they are typical of the undergraduates the country over—I wonder!"

Two hundred six and one-half miles an hour is the speed-record made by an airplane in Paris. The driver was hampered by a side wind and feels that he can do better on a still day. The plane was a 300-horsepower Niuport.

OLD BOYS OF MCGILL FORM HOCKEY CLUB

University A.A.A. Will Play in City League

MANY STARS

Recent Grads Will Take Place of McGill Team

At a meeting of the City League Hockey Executive held last night the admission of the University A. A. A. into the league was passed upon unanimously. The U. A. A. A. is to fill the place left vacant by the withdrawal of the McGill team. The McGill University authorities have decided to devote more time, this year for competition with other colleges including a number of American institutions and consequently there will be little time available for contests with city teams.

The University A. A. A. was organized a short time ago by a number of prominent recent McGill graduates who are anxious to remain in athletics and as sons of McGill, are desirous to bring added laurels to its alumni body. Their first step was the organization of a hockey team and it is expected that the newly formed club will also be represented in other branches of competitive sports.

The graduates should be able to send a strong team on the ice this winter. They have in their number several men who starred in intercollegiate competition and who have lost none of their schoolboy "pep". In goal, they have Dr. Lorne Montgomery, Captain and quarter of the 1919 Intercollegiate championship football team as well as "Ski" Scott and "Paw" Dooner, both of whom have made fine records as goal tenders. On the defence Dr. "Vee" Heney, of the 1919 rugby and hockey teams, Dr. "Jim" Cully of last year's sextette, and Jarvy Nichol will probably be seen in action. The forward line has a wealth of material; "Eric" Parsons, one of the best centres to represent the Red and White in recent years, Frank McGill who has gained considerable distinction by his athletic prowess at McGill and later, on M. A. A. teams; Dr. "Dud" Ross captain of last year's football team; Dr. "Punch" Parkins also of last year's Rugby squad; John Gallery, and "Dickie" Dawes.

Dr. Norm. Williamson of the 1919 Rugby team is managing the team and may be relied upon to look after the interests of the six in good fashion.

The undergraduates have received the formation of this club by the graduates with a great deal of enthusiasm, and it is expected that large numbers of students will be on hand to support the Old Boys in their games this winter.

The University A. A. A. will include men from the various universities in eastern and western Canada. Already Toronto and R. M. C. graduates have been placed in the executive, and it is expected that representatives from the other Canadian Universities as well as the University of Montreal will shortly be added.

GREAT TREAT IN STORE FOR ORPHEUM PATRONS NEXT WEEK

Manager Moss and Director Blair of the Orpheum Players have had their heads together and the special instructions resulting to the scenic wizards of the Orpheum Theatre promise that the visual dressing of "Up in Mabel's Room" will be a treat as well as the acting.

Of course, Mabel is one who starts all of the real trouble, she refuses to return a harmless little gift given to her by Garry during their Parisienne days before he settled down to a prosaic batched married existence. Garry is certain that his wife will never understand that his friendship with Mabel, and the gift were no more than a sweet friendship of their younger days. That's the sort of a wife she is, when Mabel refuses to deliver the gift back to its donor, he takes the bull by the horns and determines to get it by hook or crook.

The balance of the play revolves about his frantic efforts to accomplish this purpose and the series of perfectly logical and intensely funny complications into which he is thrown before the happy solution of his difficulties.

This funny farce will be the attraction at the Orpheum Theatre next week, and it is promised that it will be one of the greatest laughing hits in which the popular Orpheum Players have been seen in this season.

Because of the reputation that "Up in Mabel's Room" secured during its Broadway run, the demand for tickets next week is already heavy, and Manager Moss suggests that those who wish to be certain of their favorite seats make arrangements at once to secure them.

STUDENTS VOTING SYSTEM EXPLAINED

McGill Graduate Writes to "Daily"

Many fervent expressions of dissatisfaction on the voting arrangements that have been made for students are frequently heard on the campus. Some even go so far as to say that college men are, for some reason or other, being withheld from their polling rights, which have been the peculiar pride of Britons for ages past. The following letter was written to "McGill Daily" by Mr. J. A. Mathewson, Barrister, in an effort to clear up the situation and correct any misunderstanding among the students. Mr. Mathewson is himself a McGill graduate and a former President of the Students' Council.

The text of the letter is as follows:

"Doubt seems to exist in the minds of a great many McGill students not ordinarily resident in Montreal as to whether or not they have the right to vote at the coming Federal elections. Several undergraduates have asked me this question, and, as I am sure the matter is of general interest, I should be glad to offer a word of explanation through the columns of the 'McGill Daily'.

The Dominion Elections Act requires as an essential condition to the right to vote that the person desiring to vote shall ordinarily reside in the constituency where he desires to vote for at least two months preceding the date of the issue of the election writs, i.e., October 8th. Most undergraduates have not fulfilled this condition and consequently are not entitled to exercise the franchise. I am informed that the Chief Electoral Officer at Ottawa has given a ruling which in effect excludes from the polls all students seeking to vote in constituencies other than those of their real residences, i.e., their homes. This decision is consistent with the established jurisprudence on the subject both here and in the United States. McGill students not ordinarily resident in Montreal are in the same position as the thousands of students attending other universities away from home—they cannot vote in the constituency in which the university is situated.

The situation is a most regrettable one but it is created by law. It illustrates what has been said—"The law is a ass."

Yours truly,
J. Arthur Mathewson.
Past President Students' Council.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 18th

To arouse myself from the melancholic fit that I have from this most wretched weather I essayed to walk this afternoon upon what they call Sherbrooke street to take the ayre, but found it most vexing, for at every step that I took I sank in an odious mixture of cold slush up to the ankle, and in that I wore only low shoes I was soon wretchedly drenched, and so home to my lodging-house on Victoria street where I spent the rest of this weary day in the sipping of some excellent beef-broth made for me by the hand of little Anne Mary. Very good to my mind, only not so comforting quite as ale. In the evening to the Union where was held a sort of performance of different feats of strength with very tuneful music in between, and I took chief delight in these who strove at sword-play, in that I once did excell in that art, and know a very pretty coup to disarm and put to shame a mischievous opponent, and as for the other combats they were diverting in their turn, but I must doubt if I could take much pleasure in rolling about a wooden platform with any sort of common-fellow. For the encounters at fisticuffs I doubt if I could give a great account of myself if it fell to me to engage with a certain red-haired little fellow that I saw fight this night. All very merry, and much singing to the accompaniment of a sort of quire of zithers. I must not forget to buy me a stout pair of goloshes.

VOLUNTEERS FOR CLUB WORK

The Young Women's Hebrew Association of Montreal has this year opened a branch house on Papineau and is seeking two volunteer club leaders—one for a dramatic club, and one for a literary club. If there are any R. V. C. students who are willing to face the long trips to Papineau and give service to other girls less fortunate than themselves, their offer will be very gratefully received. Will any girl desiring to do this work please communicate with the Secretary, R. V. C., or with Miss Hurlbutt.

OTHER CAMPUSES

After duly casting his all-absorbing eyes about him, a minister breaks into print with the statement that when the average society girl enters a ball-room in recently modern times she has on only four garments.

Let's see:

There are two shoes, two stockings—Hey, wait a minute, wait a minute! Green and White.

A College in Australia has asked the Penn. Relays committee if a team could be financed to come over to America for the big games the end of April. University of Pennsylvania replied that too big an expense would be involved.

Professor Lough of N. Y. U. is at work revising the system of marking used at that university. He is working on the basis that a teacher's mood will influence the grade he gives the particular paper he is marking. Also, some instructors generally mark lower or higher than others. He plans a system whereby if the grades of a certain instructor in any department seem to average lower than the marks of the other ones in the department, he will be requested to take notice. This also works both ways, an instructor who marks too high being also notified of the fact.

From a lineup of an English Rugby football game published in the Daily of McGill University, Montreal, we pick the following names of positions: flying wing, inside, middle, outside and spares. The last is evidently meant for substitutes.

It would seem that the days of the good old bell trousers are past, for at a recent meeting of the University of Chicago interfraternity council, the question of "Knicker for Men" was brought up and seemed to make a favorable impression on that august body.

"The Knicker for Men" was the verdict rendered by that body, and will probably be considered seriously by the Northwestern university interfraternity council in order that the University of Chicago may not be allowed to lead in the Easternization of our Mid-west universities. The final vote on the question of "Knicker for Men" will be taken at the next meeting of the C. U. interfraternity council on Nov. 9.

It has been suggested that the "Easternization Movement" at Northwestern includes, not only knickers, but pipes, green tennis flannel bags as book conveyances and tea and toast for breakfast. Another suggestion is, that the campus be rechristened "The Yard."

Hand in hand with the "Knicker for Men" movement is the "Knicker for Co-Eds" a movement launched by the Childe's Shop in yesterday's Daily Northwestern. It would seem by that the day of the pleated skirt is also past.

Some of the more forward looking progressive women of Northwestern, not willing to be outdone by the men, are willing to sponsor "Easternization" among the women. This movement would include bicycling to class omitting hair nets, smoking briar pipes, and universally wearing tortoise shell glasses.

Flaming pigeons, dropping like rockets into the Mississippi River, presented a strange sight recently in St. Paul. The birds escaped from a second story window of a burning building with sparks on wings and tails of many. The action of the fanning wings spread the flames until the birds were enveloped in fire, causing their death.

A life insurance policy held by a man in Staunton, Va., whose home was wrecked by a cyclone, was found 18 miles from where the wreck occurred. The policy was badly torn and splotted when found.

If wives were turned out like Ford's most ment would have a new model every year.

"The Bill will not let in Canadian wheat, but will save to the American farmer the right to raise a bushel of wheat instead of transferring that right to Canada"—Mr. Fordney, in introducing the Fordney Emergency Tariff Bill which has shut millions of dollars worth of Canadian foodstuffs out of the United States market.

"If we are to build up a self-sustaining agriculture here at home, the farmer must be protected from unfair competition from those countries where agriculture is still being exploited."—President Harding. The very spot chosen to deliver this speech—Minnesota—shows that Harding had the Canadian North-West in mind.

WHILE ties of friendship unite Canada and the United States, the attitude of Uncle Sam is that of "Business First", and Canada cannot and should not hope for any consideration from the United States where the interests of the farmers and business people of that country are involved.

Uncle Sam has built the Fordney Tariff directly against Canadian agriculture, and new additional Tariff proposals are now under consideration to shut out from the United States Canadian goods of every kind.

These measures are due to the insistence of the American farmer that the United States market shall be retained exclusively for him and that the influx of Canadian farm products into that country must cease. They are also due to a like insistence of United States manufacturers and workers, who have seen their country develop tremendously and grow rich under a Protective Tariff, and who believe that a still further increase in Tariff is the only means of assuring continued prosperity.

CONTRAST THE ATTITUDE OF THE UNITED STATES LEADERS WITH THAT OF CANADA'S WOULD-BE LEADERS, CRERAR AND KING

Crerar proposes to allow American goods to enter the Canadian market free of duty.

King proposes that the present reasonable Tariff on the products of the American factory and farm shall be greatly reduced, and that the home market of the Canadian farmer and manufacturer alike shall be thrown open to our Southern neighbour, in the face of the United States Emergency tariff, which practically shuts out Canadian farm products from these markets, and also in the face of the permanent tariff now under consideration at Washington, which gives every promise of being even more drastic than the Emergency Tariff so far as our products are concerned.

In view of the attitude of the United States, what folly it is for Crerar and King to propose throwing open the Canadian market to a flood of both agricultural and manufactured products of the United States when there is not the slightest possibility of any compensative advantage to Canada.

Does any sane Canadian believe that Crerar or King, hat in hand, could persuade the United States Government to completely reverse its Tariff policies and agree to reciprocal trade in face of American public demand for a high protective Tariff?

The people of the United States conduct their affairs and protect themselves by the principle that "Business is business". Why should Canada do otherwise?

Unlike Crerar or King, MEIGHEN stands firm for a reasonable Tariff to protect all our industries—those of the farm, the sea, the mine, the forest, the factory, and for the building up of a bigger and better Canada through the full development of the home market.

FRIENDSHIP WITH THE UNITED STATES? YES, BY ALL MEANS!

BUT—

let us defend our home market, our industries, our farms, our workmen, our homes by the same methods as are used so effectively against us.

Let us work out our own destiny—that of a strong, self-contained nation within the British Empire group of Nations, courageous, masterful, self-reliant.
